. . . have blended into patterns of life senioric, life junioric, life sophomoric. From fall's apprehension to spring's anticipation, always the patterns have varied.

Sometimes the shadows writhed in win-wanting anguish: five seconds remaining, two points behind; the hurried dribble; four seconds; the pivot; three seconds; the pass; two seconds the shot . . . that fell short.

And because high school is mirth-replete, the shadows often twisted their featureless faces into imitation of grins and giggles and guffaws.

But life was more than antics. Frequently it was study-tiresome and memory-strained. Shadows fidgeted and shadows fretted through tests and homework.

Shadows of Our Day revealed the contrasts, the seeming conflicts. Conflicts of . . .

Sporran Honors Principal William W. Taylor

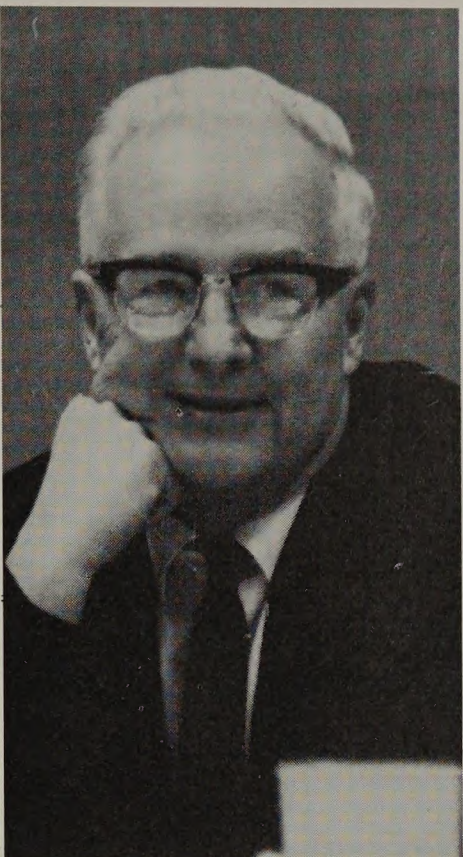

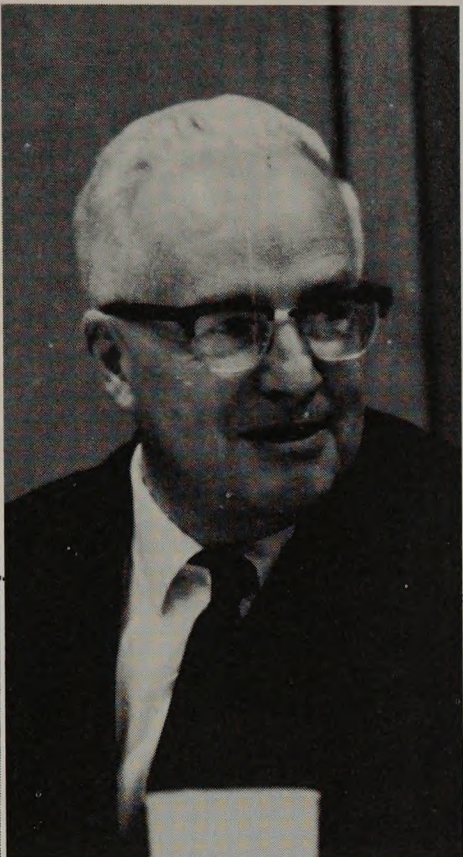

Shadle Park grew this year: 2224 students compose the biggest school in Spokane. Seniors, 878 strong, form the largest class to graduate from a city school. New situations face the faculty and staff, but no one feels the pressure more than the principal. He deals with student, business and administrative problems into after-school and weekend hours. Some of this is gratifying; some isn't. A principal is extremely proud to write a college that a student has a 3.8 GPA and is an able leader. However, he finds it difficult to tell a parent that his son is a constant disciplinary problem and can no longer attend Shadle. Yet these things must be done. Counselors, business managers, department heads and office staff assist the principal and ease his load. But ultimately, all major problems and decisions rest with him. For his service to Shadle Park High School and Spokane youth, the staff proudly dedicates the 1965 Sporran to Mr. William W. Taylor.

Mr. Taylor, as a featured speaker at convocations and assemblies, symbolizes Highlander pride, spirit and loyalty.

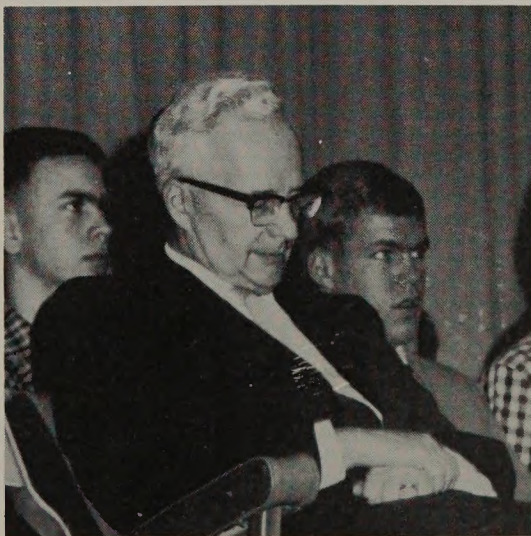

Shadle Park High School opened September, 1957, with William W. Taylor as its first principal. Mr. Taylor graduated from public high school in Whitefish, Montana, and received a BA degree from Carleton College, Northfield, Minnesota, four years later. He taught at Cass Lake, Minnesota, for one year and at Cutbank, Montana, for five years. In 1935 he moved to Spokane and began teaching math at Lewis and Clark High School. He became LC's vice-principal in 1942. During these years of experience, Mr. Taylor gained knowledge about teachers and instruction methods, which enabled him to gather a top professional staff at Shadle Park. The common educational goal is "the best possible education for the individual student!" Before Shadle opened in 1957, Mr. Taylor conducted an intensive six-week summer training program for the entire staff. This was designed to acquaint the teachers, coordinate the curriculum, set the activities schedule, and establish a basic school philosophy. His highly efficient and effective organization has earned national recognition for Shadle.

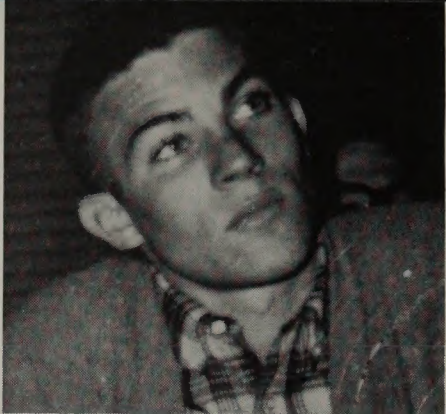

Even serious problems may contain a note of humor for William Taylor and vice-principal Keith Rostvold, left. They frequently confer to coordinate Shadle's administrative policy.

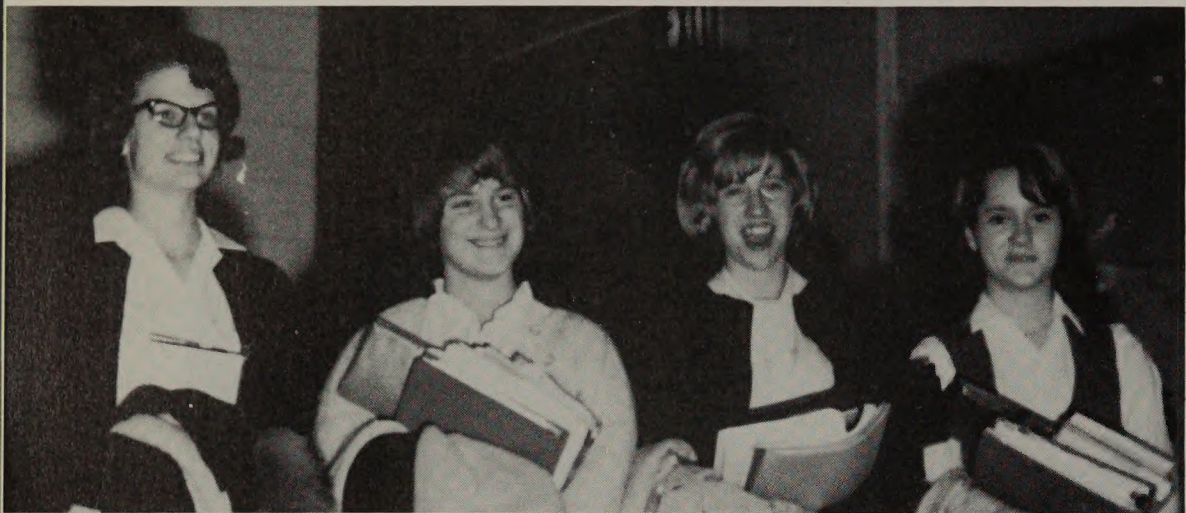

Mr. Taylor silently reflects on Reverend Bill Totum's speech during the spring ASB installation conf.

Scottish Highlander

Colors flashing, tartan flying, exuberant Highlanders display spirit.

"The Highlanders have arrived!" yells Mr. Cobb as pep cons, and 2,230 wildly gesticulating fans leap to their feet to sport victory signs. Lads and lassies sell booster buttons and paint posters before games to bolster team morale. Beanie Club, Pep Club, Hi-Lassies, and band members promote enthusiasm. Spirit abounds at Shadle Park.

Traditions link Shadle to the glory of the Henderson clan of Scotland. Shadle's tartan weaves its pattern through every aspect of school life—in the classroom, on the field, and in every Highlander heart. Strains of old Scotch melodies echoing through the halls at the close of day recall shadows of the past and tie ancient traditions closer to this modern age of missiles and miracles.

Scottish airs performed on the bagpipes symbolize Shadle traditions.

Traditions Spark

Spirit

Shadle Park High School's specially-designed coat-of-arms illustrates the history of the Shadle man. Tartan, bagpipes, and crossed swords portray the Scottish Highlander theme. Both the grouse foot, symbolic of a highland game bird, and the thistle, national flower of Scotland, signify Highlander heritage. Spokane Falls, the original landmark of Spokane, appears in the upper section. The crescent and star symbolize Mr. Eugene Shadle, first owner of the Crescent Department Store and donor of the land now occupied by the school. Class of '64 members presented the coat-of-arms as a gift to Shadle.

Small World' Observes, Mimics

Shadle Park: small world, shadow of a larger one. Shadow of democratic government, competition, initiative. Shadle Park: shadow and mimic of the world this year.

A world that was victory: Lyndon Johnson became the 36th President; that was change: Khrushchev was ousted as Russia's Communist leader, that was disappointment: Barry Goldwater felt the sting of defeat in his bid for the White House; that was competition; Olympic athletes met in Tokyo.

Through these events Shadle Park observed, criticized, learned by standing in the shadow of the world. Shadle Park was the shadow.

Administrative Staff Toward

A student's plea for "just one more pep con," an eight class schedule, a jammed locker, a college entrance examination: "the office" encounters these and similar situations throughout the school year. Shadle Park's administration is the headquarters for the organization and smooth operation of the school. Every student has direct contact with a staff member at least once during his high school years.

Hendersan tartans symbolize the Scottish tradition of Shadle Park. Mr. Taylor and Mr. Rastvald wear their jockets on calar day to promote school pride and spirit.

Guides Shadle Students Academic Excellence

Mr. Taylor organized Shadle as the pilot school for data processing, which is now city-wide. Mr. Conner, counselor, serves as Shadle's IBM coordinator. Mr. Rostvold handles most of the disciplinary action and Mr. Cobb works with college-bound seniors. Miss Cleveland, Mrs. Iverson, and Mrs. Painter, in addition to their full-time counseling duties, advise the Girls' League. Mr. Stockman handles all school funds and orders supplies and equipment.

Report cards sometimes provide added personal problems for students and necessitate extra sessions for Miss Cleveland and the other counselors.

Endorses Safe Driving During Fall Term

Welcoming Shadle's third exchange student, Alfredo Sabater of Caracas, Venezuela, was the first duty of the fall Associated Student Body Council.

Highlander Week, the traditional kick-off for fall semester events, was four days long instead of the usual five, and centered around the theme "Our Enchanted Highlands." The crowning of Sue Shaw and Rob Young as Friendliest Girl and Boy highlighted this week of friendliness and school spirit.

ASB emphasized safe driving this year in competing for the Safe Driving Banner. The council chose students to make safety announcements over local radio stations.

"Upon a Midnight Clear", this year's annual Christmas dance, was semi-formal for the first time. The dance was December 19 in the cafeteria.

ASB conducts its regular business meetings each Tuesday during zero hour.

"Battle of the Sexes" Traditional Highlander Week

Castle doors beckon Highlanders to cross the drawbridge leading to music and excitement at the traditional Highland Fling Dance.

Friendliest boy and girl condidates eagerly owoited coranotion of Shadle's mast popular students.

Humorous antics by both lads and lasses in a "battle of the sexes" over servile superiority introduced traditional Highlander Week. For one moment of fantasy Shadle's teachers became students and submitted to orders given by the student body at the Hi-Student Day Con. Highlanders attended a girlask-boy mixer before school on Hi-Lassie Day. Shadle's Henderson plaid, the student body, teachers, lads and lasses captured attention and honor throughout the 1964 Highlander Week—"Our Enchanted Highlands." Shadle's friendliest boy and girl reigned over the Highland Fling Dance following their election by the student body. The dance concluded the week's festivities.

Sore backs and strained muscles prevail during Hi-Lassie Day as boys like Mike Kuehn perform such courtesies as shining shoes.

"Me? Carry your books?" protests Linda Hensdell to Ran Jahnson on Hi-Laddie Day. She finally gives in and obeys Hi-Laddie Day traditions.

Paula Grafmiller exerts her feminine powers over down-trodden Dick Urbaniak as he hints to the audience his inner feelings toward the opposite sex. Lads also had an opportunity to rule over the girls in "the battle of the sexes" during the Hi-Student Day Can.

Christmas Dance Opens Holiday Season

Pink and silver ornaments and a large abstract Christmas tree provided atmasphere far the Christmas Dance. The "Rayalmen" played far the dance, "Upa a Midnight Clear," which ushered in the haliday season far Shadlites.

Sweetheart Dance, Exchange Students Headline Spring Semester ASB Council Activities

Shadle students demonstrate a new dance craze, "The Jerk," at the annual Sweetheart Dance held in the school cafeteria.

Spring semester Associated Student Body council began its term on a festive note by presenting the annual Valentine's Dance. Decorations carried out this year's theme, "Here's My Heart", even to personalized souvenirs; suspense and excitement prevailed until Jerry Burnett crowned Gloria Niederhauser the 1965 Sweetheart.

"And they had a . . . and a . . . and even a . . ." Four Highlanders reported on a Seattle school after returning from a cross-state visit. These exchange students, selected by a student-faculty committee, spent one week in a Seattle school while Shadle was host to students from these schools.

"It's so big and there are so many people," sighed a bewildered sophomore as he wandered around the halls on Sophomore Orientation Day. A yearly event sponsored by the ASB, Orientation Day acquaints new students with the various facets of Shadle school life.

Cheerleaders Win Awards

Shadle cheerleaders captured first awards at the July 1964 Yell and Song Leader conference in Ellensburg, Washington. They competed against other cheerleaders from Washington state while learning new songs, cheers, and various techniques to promote school spirit. Using these ideas, the cheerleaders decorated the boys' shower room before the N. C. football game, planned and led pep cons and decorated the bus before the Rogers football game. They introduced a wrestling song which was sung at the beginning of the matches, and led chants and cheers at the meets. Attending an all-city conference, cheerleaders learned basketball rules from Dr. George Werner, director of the Physical Education Department, and discussed crowd control with cheerleaders from other city high schools. They also taught cheerleading classes each Monday morning so that girls wishing to try out could learn the school songs and cheers. Three sessions of try-outs began in March. The P. E. teachers and a cheerleader judged the first try-out. Three faculty members chose the semi-finalists and A. S. B. council members made the final decision. The new girls met before the end of school and began practicing. All of the girls agree that being a cheerleader is a full time hobby.

Pep Club Symbolizes Youth, Energy, Spirit and Fun

Scottish thistles and misty clouds transformed Shadle's cafeteria into "Brigadoon," an imaginary village in the highlands of Scotland, for the first annual Pep Club dance. Proceeds supplemented the treasury, as did a car wash and cup cake sale.

During the football season, the girls decorated the boys' shower room and prepared a surprise breakfast for the players after Shadle's first victory. In February members chartered a bus and traveled to Ephrata for a wrestling meet. Pep Club gave a dinner for members of the wrestling and basketball teams after the season ended.

In appreciation for spirit and support of the athletic teams, Clansmen presented the club with a gold banner bearing its name and emblem in green. Members exhibited school spirit and enthusiasm by attending all league football and basketball games, and some wrestling, track, and baseball meets.

Activity List

Five "robust" cheerleaders kept the fans excited as Stormy, Sleepy, and Sad Sack caused considerable trouble for their riders during the first Donkey Basketball Game. Shadle's Clansmen, fighting their way to a 6-6 tie with the Class of '65, sponsored the event.

While recovering from the game, the Clansmen participated in Shadle's March of Dimes drive and began preparation for the annual Slave Day and Dinner-Dance. In the last week of school the lettermen presented their traditional gift to the athletic department.

Clansmen came in many sizes, shapes, and hairdos, but this athlete hasn't been admitted yet.

New Director Inspires Treble Tempos,

New uniforms, a new group, and a new director enhanced the choral department this year.

"Highliters" was the name given the now-combined Treble Tempos and Highlandaires. They sang for the Pops Concert, Spaghetti Feed, in city competition and for various special recitals.

Mrs. Karen Nye, choral director, joined the faculty and prepared the choir and other choral sections for performances in the Christmas program, Spring Concert, and All-City competition at Cheney.

Girls Chorus, Mixed Chorus and the Highliters received new uniforms to complete department changes.

Stage Band musicians accompanied Myron Floren at the eighth annual Pops Concert in November. They also played for the sports banquets and at the Spaghetti Feed.

Girls Chorus first appeared before the student body in the Christmas Concert. This year they participated in the All-City Music Concert.

Two additional music groups, Cadet Band and Mixed Chorus, are open to anyone wishing to participate. Following one year's membership, students progress to Concert Band or Concert Choir. Stage Band members are selected from the Concert Band.

Mr. John Horris directs the orchestra through "Gigi" to perfect it for the Pops Concert.

Feature page assignments are handled by Bart Preecs, Lynda Toso and Kathy Allgaier for a first semester issue.

Advocates Honor Roll

Take 15 students, place in a cloud of confusion, add a dash of panic, a double portion of work, leave standing in a room well-supplied with pencils and paper, and what do you get? In Shadle's case the result is the Hi-Lander Hi-Lites newspaper.

This year's staff, with a minimum of confusion and panic, put out 14 issues, continuing the Scholastic Press award-winning style of the previous year. Editorials stressed the establishment of a school honor society.

Dee Logan and Sandi Kates distribute the latest issue of the Hi-Lites to the representative from one of the larger homerooms.

Complements

1965 Sporrán

Improving photography and copy was the main objective of the 1965 Sporran staff. Concentrating on these goals, the staff continued the "mass-balance" (magazine format) of last year's award-winning book.

Whitworth and University of Washington journalism conferences, attended by some staff members, stressed creative lay-outs and photography.

A new sales technique sent thirty salesmen circulating through the building seeking 1900 buyers, eighty-six percent of the student body. The top fifteen salesmen received a free dinner in February from the publisher and the top ten won free yearbooks from the staff for their efforts.

Mr. Ted Clark advised the staff in selecting a theme, structuring the book, and meeting the four page deadlines.

Ken Bennett aid to the production of a yearbook. The team of Ken Varos and Ken Bennett select copy for the book.

Alfredo Explains Strange Customs in Discussion About Homeland

"Santa comes in through the window," quips Alfredo Sabater as he explains how they solve the problem in a country where houses have no chimneys.

Grades, physical condition, recommendations, and five years of English enabled Al to become an exchange student from Caracas, Venezuela. While in America Al stays with Shadle sophomore Greg Sanford and his family.

School dances and painting class are at the top of the AFS student's "I like" list, but the one thing at Shadle which meant the most to him was, "When they all came to meet me at the airport, the band, the girls . . . I never expected anything like this."

Al tells about his home and school at a foreign exchange student con in February.

As eager to answer as he is to learn, Al recites in English class.

Six Maintain 4.0 G. P. A.'s

If Shadle had an Honor Society consisting of students with outstanding grade point averages, citizenship, and extracurricular participation, the 19 seniors who have 3.9 to 4.0 grade point averages would constitute the first members.

Those in this list and their grade point averages are: Jack Brenton, 4.0; Marvin Crisp, 4.0; Tom Everson, 4.0; Linda Hider, 4.0; Barry Holmes, 4.0; Joan Shotwell, 4.0; Bob Moran, 3.964; Shirley Adams, 3.962; Terry Deglow, 3.962; Pat Donahoe, 3.958; Sandi Kates, 3.958; Barb Gess, 3.957; Mike Helland, 3.957; John Hughes, 3.923; Annette Hardinger, 3.917; Connie McDaniel, 3.913; Dale Crisp, 3.900; Dan Meineke, 3.900, and Rich Weaver, 3.900.

Preparing for a television program are Senior Service Panel members Fred Foss, Carol Aden, Bruce Bentley, Linda Fjoslien, and standing, Leslie Rowe, alternate. Academic excellence is necessary to participate on the panel.

Besides being a year younger than most seniors, Bob Moran has taken a total of 28 classes in which he received 27 A's.

Student Voting, Faculty Judging Crowns

Speculation, anticipation, suspense: who will be Lilac Princess?

Senior nominations and student voting provided six possible answers to the question: Pam Johnson, Diane Jukich, Diana Kerr, Diane Luscher, Gloria Niederhauser and Sue Shaw.

A faculty panel had the final say in an evening coronation which replaced the traditional con. The six finalists smiled . . . gave speeches . . . were nervous . . . and waited. The judges were critical; the audience impatient.

Suddenly silence: Master of Ceremonies Bart Preecs toyed with his privilege of disclosing the decision. The long unblinking suspense. Then the gasp. The tears. The Lilac Princess . . . Diane Luscher.

Dileas Chailin, honor club for girls, combines culture and fun with bake sales, banquets and ballet. A bake sale at a local laundromat increased the club's treasury; a Dad-Daughter potluck dinner headed the list of fall activities.

A Christmas time, members honored graduated girls at a reunion party. The members renewed old friendships, sang Christmas carols, and served refreshments.

A make-up demonstration entertained girls at a joint meeting with Vox Puel-larum, North Central's girls' service club. Spring cultural activities included attending the Young People's Concert and Ballet and sponsoring Dileas' third annual Fine Arts Festival.

Festival Displays Mexican Handicrafts

Culture is the rumba, a final smudge of colored chalk or Mexican pottery. Culture is Dileas Chailin's March Fine Arts Festival.

Cakewalk, rumba and Mexican hat dances opened a week of cultural events. Day of Drama featured readings and short scenes from famous plays. Student art work decorated the hall windows throughout the week and Shadleites demonstrated painting and silk screening in the Commons. Mrs. Opal Fleckenstein from Eastern Washington State College lectured on Mexican handicrafts to complete the art events of the week.

A music program composed of individual numbers and an evening spring music concert climaxed the festival.

Lettering, paintings and sketches by Shadle's art students lined the walls in the Commons during the Fine Arts Festival.

"Dauble, dauble tail and trauble; Fire burn and cauldron bubble!" cackle Pat Whalen, Rosemary Havercamp and Karla Stratford as they enact a scene from Shakespeare's Macbeth for Day of Drama.

Marshall Johnson accompanies the girls' chorus during the Spring Music Concert.

Rifle Club Shoots for Medals

Practicing their skill in the tunnels below Shadle is a unique privilege offered to members of Rifle Club. A member of the National Rifle Association, the club requires that individuals pass a state safety examination to join. Each marksman works toward earning a medal which he receives after shooting high scores during competitive meets.

Under the direction of Mr. Clyde Coombs, members practice graceful swimming routines using basic ballet positions and geometric designs in the water. This spring the club presented a water show to the public.

Caileag Clan Offers Co-Ed Activities

Each month Highland lads and lassies meet on the volleyball court for games, companionship, and refreshments at Co-Ed Nights. Caileag Clan, whose main objective is promoting sports activities at Shadle, also sponsored an annual party with the Clansmen and served coffee and cookies to parents at the Dad's Night Wrestling Match.

In addition, Caileag supervises the girls' after-school intramurals program. Members are chosen according to their interest in sports and by their attendance records at after-school intramural games.

Thespians Head Casts of School Plays

Presidents Sue Evans and Kay Keller, vice presidents Bill Parker and Linda Fjaslien and secretaries Steve Whitehead and Pat Whelan led Thespians through fall and spring activities.

Medea and Bull in a China Shop, two school productions, gave Thespians a chance to exhibit their acting prowess. The club, advised by Mrs. Kay Whelan, also participated in a dramatics workshop led by Professor Gunderson from Whitworth college early this spring.

Kay Keller, spring semester president, spent six weeks during the past summer at W.S.U. utilizing a scholarship offered to actors participating in Children's Theatre. Kay earned the honor for her role as "Mother Goose" in last year's production of Rip Van Winkle. She brought new ideas and techniques to the "budding broadwayites" of Shadle's Troupe 169.

Kay Keller supervises as Sue Evans and Charlene Smith practice applying stage make-up to Linda Fjaslien.

Exchange Student Enlightens "Amigos"

"Los Amigos, me llamo es Al Sabater y soy de Caracas, Venezuela," began Al Sabater as he described his home in Venezuela while conducting Spanish Club meetings in his native language.

Mrs. Phyllis Bongers, a d v i s o r, helped the officers and old members set up new rules for admission this year. Hopeful initiates wrote and read a 50-word theme in Spanish, and Al judged the compositions for membership.

Spanish Club changed its name from Saber es Poder to "Los Amigos" (Friends) to correspond with the name on the club pin.

Debaters Score Victories

By "outwitting the enemy—logically," debate tournament members talked their way to three successive wins early in the '65 season.

Fred Foss scored the first tournament victory by placing third in impromptu at the Gonzaga University Invitational Tournament February 1. Fred Zemke continued the trend when he placed second in oratory out of a field of 75 at the Gonzaga Prep city speech tourney. Whitworth's Tyro Debate trophies went to Ann Winton and Louis Evart for their first competitive efforts February 6.

To conclude the season, Shadle sponsored the first Lincoln-Douglas Debate Tournament, which Coach Lawrence Kraft hopes will become a tradition.

"Practice makes perfect" has become a cliché, but Talent Club unofficially adopted it as its club motto in planning money-making and charity programs this year.

The club's singers, dancers, musicians, and dramatists performed at the Veteran's Hospital, Loma Vista grade school, Washington Water Power Company, the February Foreign Exchange Student Con, and the Talent Con in March.

The club formed a scholarship committee this year to provide money for the most deserving senior.

Lights, curtains and sound effects are the responsibilities of seven boys on stage crew, directed by Mr. John Harris. This year they worked on school performances such as the Senior Con, Foreign Exchange Student Con, Talent Con, installation cons and award cons.

In addition to school performances, they are hired by other groups giving productions in Shadle's auditorium. Among these have been Gonzaga University, Junior Symphony Ballet and the Pops Concert.

Pancakes 'Flavor' D. E. Officer Ceremonies

To the victor belong the spoils—or in this case, the pancakes—as Distributive Education held officer installations at Smitty's Pancake House this year.

Employer-employee and city-wide banquets were other featured occasions. The club also sponsored a National Peach Promotion Week in local stores.

Each member works part-time in addition to attending the school's D.E. classes.

Centerpieces Enlarge Elda Tra Treasury

Making and selling centerpieces for Thanksgiving gave Art Club members the opportunity to earn money for the club in a competitive way. Mr. Robert Gregg, a guest speaker from Joel E. Ferris High School, lectured on Batik, a method of fixing colored designs. Other activities included a Beatnik party for the fall semester officers, a workshop and visits to art displays.

Future Teachers Assist at Field Grade School

Classroom observation and limited teaching experience at Field Grade School allowed the Future Teachers of America to explore their possible careers. Members assisted teachers at the grade school by correcting papers and helping with such experiments as making butter.

Guest speakers during the year explained education requirements, fields of teaching, and teaching opportunities.

They also supplied entertainment at the Eastern State Hospital Variety Show. Rick Manum and Sally Glover serve as Shadle's representatives to the council.

F. M. S. Members Work as Hospital Volunteers

Working as volunteers at St. Luke's Hospital enables members of the Future Medical Students' Club to gain actual experience in the field of medicine. Participants in this program earn points by serving in central service, X-ray, physical therapy and lab. The American Medical Association awards pins to students with enough points.

On its way to capturing three wins, the Laddies outscored opponents 146 to 126. In statistics, the team beat almost every opponent but often came out on the short end of the scoreboard.

Pictured at right with the team symbol, Coach Harvey Lochhead is truly the "hub of the cross country team." ## Wrestlers Take Third in

Led by the Highlanders of Shadle Park, Spokane high school wrestling gained state prominence this year. Shadle compiled a dual meet record of 16 wins, while bowing only twice to the state champions from Moses Lake. During the season the Highlanders scored 598 points, allowing their opponets only 198. After their weekly devastation of rivals, they stormed into the district and captured their fourth straight crown to add to their third city championship.

As the year closed, the Scotties looked to the state tournament and claimed the number three spot, ending Shadle's most successful season under Coach Lyle Pugh.

Wrestling and Basket

Coaches are generally proud of their teams, and head wrestling coach Lyle Pugh is no exception. When asked what he thought of this year's B-squad, he said, "It's like all of Shadle, tremendous!"

The B-squaders wrestled in thirteen dual meets and lost only two matches. In addition, twelve boys filled in for varsity wrestlers in twenty-one individual matches, winning all but four.

The varsity will lose twenty-seven seniors, but forty-five sophomores and twelve juniors with match experience will fill the vacancies.

Reveals Highlander Potential

Preseason basketball carried ominous overtones in the form of three non-league losses, but the losses became insignificant at the advent of an eight-game winning streak kicked off by a 49-48 defeat of Gonzaga. Victories over Mead, West Valley, Central Valley, a non-league win over Coeur d'Alene, and a 55-34 defeat of Ferris followed the Gonzaga squeaker.

Two more non-league wins during the Christmas Holiday Tournament demonstrated Highlander potential. Following the holiday contest, Lewis and Clark delivered Shadle's first league loss.

At this point, first place in Division II began changing hands between Shadle and Central Valley. A Shadle win over Rogers, a loss to NC, another win over Mead, and a loss to University were matched by corresponding wins and losses by Central Valley, the major divisional opposition.

During the latter stages of the season Central Valley cinched first place in Division II and Shadle defeated Gonzaga to wrap up second. The Highlanders lost a chance for a spot in the State Tournament after they bowed to Lewis and Clark by three points. LC used Shadle's own weapon, accurate foul shooting, to capture its playoff spot in the last few seconds.

Shadle's well-balanced, but very young, team was a constant threat to all clubs throughout the season. Juniors Joe Ralph and Steve Miller began playing regularly during the final throes of the season. They turned in consistently good games and provided needed depth for the Shadle Varsity.

Ed Fisher takes to the air to avoid a check by a Lewis and Clark defender.

Averaging 59 points a game, the B-Squad engaged Central Valley and Lewis and Clark in a struggle for the city title which left the rest of the opposition far behind.

Extremely close wins characterized the long eighteen league-game season. The last two or three seconds decided two games in a row and left Shadle players with shaky knees as they first squirmed by Sandpoint 69-68 and then downed Rogers 55-53.

Toughens Baseball Team City League Opponents

Fighting sub-normal temperatures in the early portion of the season, the Shadle baseball team prepared for their league opener against Gonzaga.

Sparked by team depth, the Shadle Park diamond dusters, coached by Mr. Joe Heslin, headed for one of their strongest seasons. The return of nine lettermen plus a good crop of juniors gave the team needed balance at all positions.

Acquisition of bleachers for the baseball diamond cheered Mr. Heslin, team members, faculty and students. The Comstock Foundation placed six sections of bleachers, each holding 55 people, around the field in time for this year's league opener.

B-Squad Shows Depth in Preseason Workouts

Strength in outfield and infield positions and pitching support from the varsity anchored the B squad baseball team. Coach Doug Cresswell and his eighteen squad members anticipated a winning season after whipping Rogers 10-3 in a practice game. Rogers was the only squad to defeat the Highlanders last year.

Victory in the All-City Golf Tournament was the high point of the season for the girls' golf team. Terry Menteer, this year's medalist, won individual honors in the competition. Driving their way through league action, the golfers gained another first place. The team tied their match with L.C., but defeated all other city schools. Golf action continued this spring with Shadle golfers defending the title.

Gymnasts Capture Top Honors in Area Competition

Executing a handstand on the balance beam, Linda Scott shows the style that enabled her to win top honors at Kennewick and Cheney.

Judy Oakley practices a shoulder stand while Marilyn Stevens spots during a gymnastics session.

Gymnasts performing in various meets captured honors in free exercise, balance beam, trampoline, tumbling and vaulting box. In the December Inland Empire Open Gymnastics Meet, Shadle won the team award. Linda Scott, Diane Sinnott, and Judy Keeler each received individual recognition which contributed to this honor. Later in the season they earned the team trophy at the E.W.S.C. meet.

Teams Clash in Intramural Action

Girls participating in the intramural sports program demonstrate enthusiasm for athletics as their teams clash every Monday and Thursday after school. Mrs. Hammond and Mrs. Jones conduct the intramural activities which include volleyball and basketball tournaments. The winning teams attend a sports day at Ferris High School.

Two teams tied for the intramural basketball championship. Front Row: Janice Bertholf, Cathy Burquist, Jackie Babin, Kathy Cropp, Darlene Westbrook. # Book Schedules, Films

Comprehensive book schedules and new humanities films highlight the English curriculum. Teachers give careful attention to organizing the book schedule so students read all of the available novels instead of just one.

Study of novels consists of Silas Marner and Tale of Two Cities for the sophomores and My Antonia, Ethan Frome, Giants in the Earth, Old Man and the Sea, and Red Badge of Courage for the juniors.

Senior classes read Our Town, the Greek drama Oedipus, and Charles Dicken's Great Expectations. They also study the world's great poetry and the history of language.

Students who complete three years of English at Shadle will come in contact with each one of these books.

Highlight English Year

Testing is an experience familiar to all students. Mr. Chondler distributes English tests to "eagerly awaiting" scholars.

Writing emphasis varies on the different levels. Sophomores study grammar and short compositions. Juniors construct a vocational paper with the aid of "dutch uncle" interviews, arranged by the school. Senior students, in preparation for college, write a full research paper on any subject of their choice.

Three honors classes add depth to the English curriculum. Honors students cover all regular work, but they study it in greater detail. Seniors must pass a screening test before being admitted because they receive college credits from certain Washington schools.

Intense study yields fruitful results.

Future Decisions Simplified . . .

Courses offered in the Social Studies Department give students essential information which can serve as a standard rule for making sound decisions about future political, social and economic problems.

History reveals man's past mistakes and contributes to his progress. Economics gives students a basic understanding of the problems and the advances of commerce; sociology deals with human relationships and behavior.

For the first time since Shadle opened every student is enrolled in at least one social studies class: U. S. history, world history or contemporary world problems.

Elective courses enrich the program and offer a background for college-bound students. American government and economics will be required subjects next fall. Sociology will then be the only elective in the department.

"Just making a few comments," is Mr. Robert Kuehl, while C.W.P. students add finishing touches to maps of Africa.

Panel discussions form an essential part of the Sociology classes. Students Dean Fuehrer, Margaret Schmidt, Rager Stevens and Karen Kaller consult Mr. Breckenridge on presentation techniques.

Math Department Courses Emphasize SMMSG Skills

Mr. Eacker emphatically explains advanced mathematical equations.

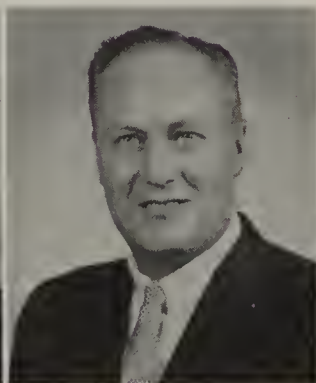

Pat McElray ponders over problems presented in an advanced math class.

Continuation describes this year's Math Department. Juniors and sophomores in SMMSG (Student Mathematics Study Group) develop basic skills in algebra, geometry, and trigonometry. Five senior advanced math classes continue studying SMMSG problems. Though parents find this course confusing, students show marked interest in logical progression of proofs and theorems. Students continuing math in college and in future professions rely on math skills learned in SMMSG courses.

Student Initiative in Science Dept.

Introduced to the science curriculum this year was the CHEM Study program based on experimentation. Students make their own conclusions, substantiated by new books and lab manuals. In general use throughout the city, the object of the course is to provide a better science background for the college-bound student. One section of CHEM Study was taught at Shadle last year and proved successful enough to be taught to all chemistry classes this year.

Students' notes of Mr. Ray Mohny's lectures form the necessary background for the next lab experiment.

Mr. Mohny counsels a student on the deep mysteries of biology.

CHEM Study allows the student more freedom in his work.

Provides Foundation for the Future

Co or z These symbols, as any Shadle shorthand student in the Business Education Department can explain, represent "practice makes perfect."

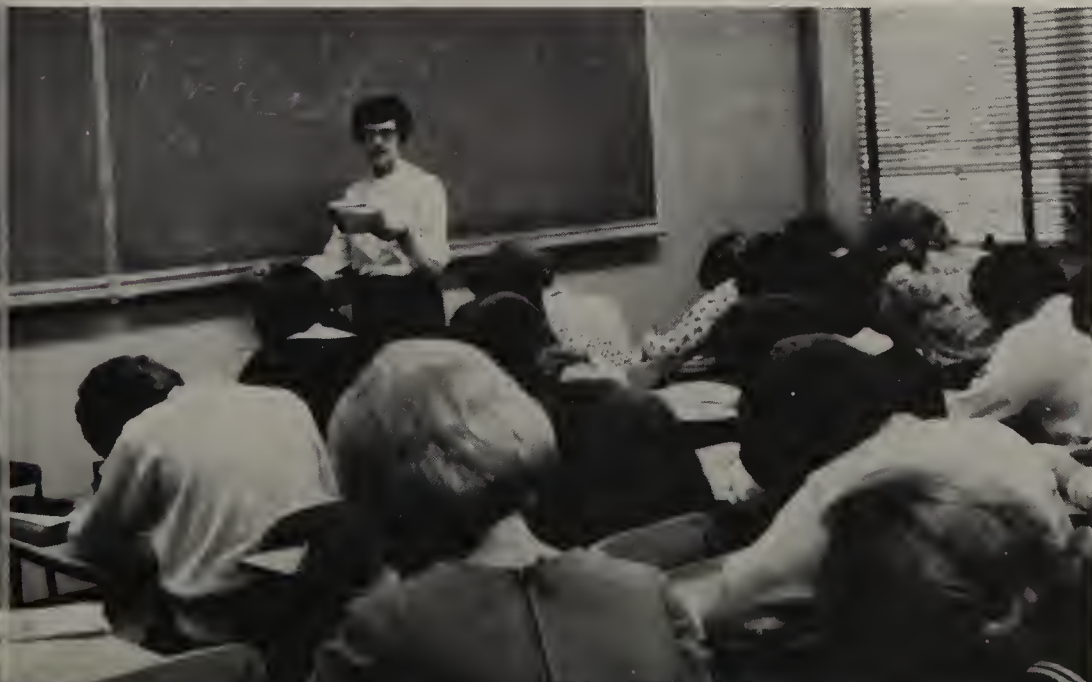

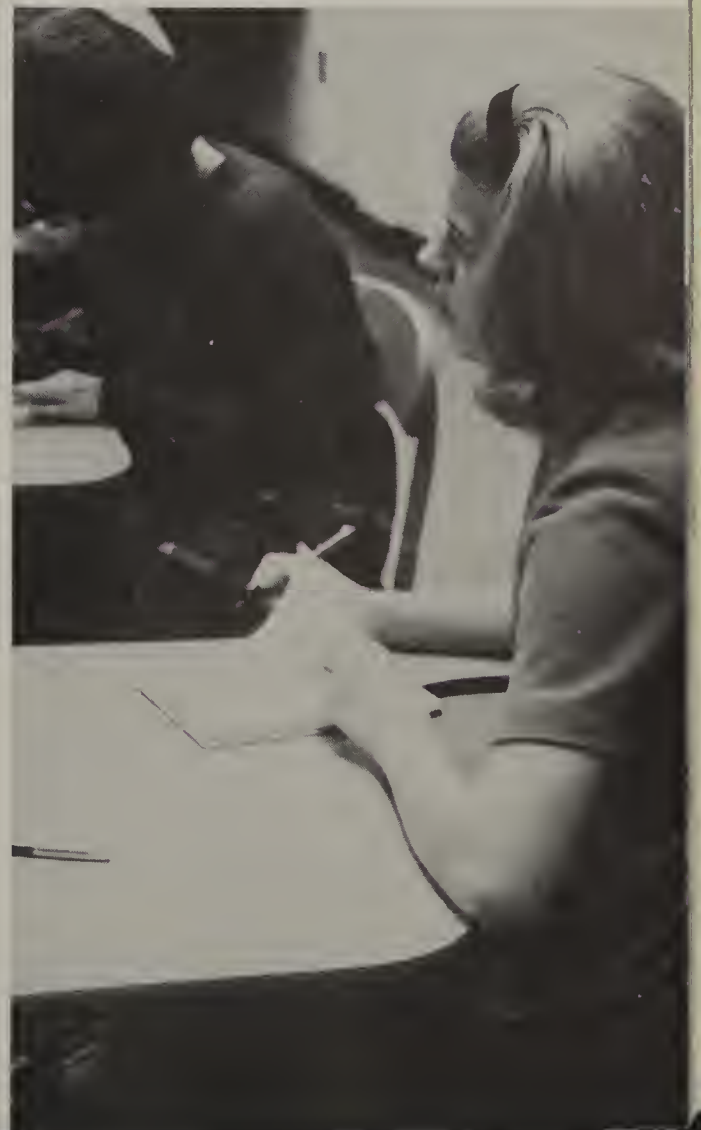

First-year classes strive for accuracy as they practice the alphabet and brief-forms through oral and written repetition.

Second-year shorthand students concentrate on speed development. Classes take dictation and then type the given material the next period in transcription.

The department also offers bookkeeping, business machines, office practice and typing.

By dictating to her shorthand class, Mrs. Mary Griggs conveys practical business knowledge.

Pondering on the next correct brief-form is Mary Pat Jaskulski, first year shorthand student.

Students Develop

Students develop texturing skills as part of the "Painting I-II" class.

"Sculpturing is fun" agree two art students as they complete one of the clay projects.

National Art competition is the aim of many Shadle art students. Artists complete a portfolio consisting of 3 drawings and other selected projects to compete for national scholarships.

In addition, all art students work on local and state contests, Christmas decorations, game banners, special displays for various school departments and regular class assignments.

Senior studio, a type of "honors" art class, is responsible for the Sporan cover, end-sheets and section pages.

A culminating effort for the artists is the annual Fine Art show. Each student has at least one project on display during this week.

Garry Middleton uses burlap and canvas to develop a special textural effect in his Senior Studio art project.

Basic art students annually decorate the school at Christmas. A student finishes the office wall panel.

Band members diligently practice for the annual Christmas Concert.

Appreciation of Fine Arts

Competition in All-Northwest music contests climaxed the year for members of the choral and instrumental groups of Mrs. Karen Nye and Mr. John Harris. A 30-minute major work by the music students was the main feature of the annual Orchestra and Choral Concert.

Throughout the 1965 music year the students gave 10 major public performances and helped promote school spirit at games and convocations. The individual musician gained stage presence by performing for the public.

Home Ec and Industrial Arts Skills

"Home is where the heart is," but homemaking students learn that time and knowledge contribute to that home.

Straight and accurate seams are on the minds of girls in tailoring classes as they create coats, skirts, suits, blouses, and dresses.

Unburned and delicious meals are the goals of students in cooking classes. They study vitamins and nutrition to plan not only good but also well-balanced meals.

As a highlight of the year, cooking classes prepared a complete turkey dinner for the faculty just before Thanksgiving vacation.

Rudette Muzzana learns the fundamentals of child care.

for the Future

Bill Ross, concentrating on the completion of his radio in electronics class, solders a wire.

Excellence takes time! Industrial arts students learn this daily as they produce radios, blue-prints, tables, water skis, and engine parts.

Closed circuit television for the auditorium is one industrial arts project which has taken more than two years to build. Five advanced electronics students began the circuit to help the stage crew keep better visual contact with the activities on the stage while working in the control room. Electronics classes completed and put the new equipment into use this year.

PE Students Strive to Achieve Fitness

In the name of physical fitness, Shadle Park boys and girls swim, wrestle, tumble, lift weights, exercise, and compete in such healthful games as the Australian basketball game at the left. P.E. activities build minds and characters while building physical strength.

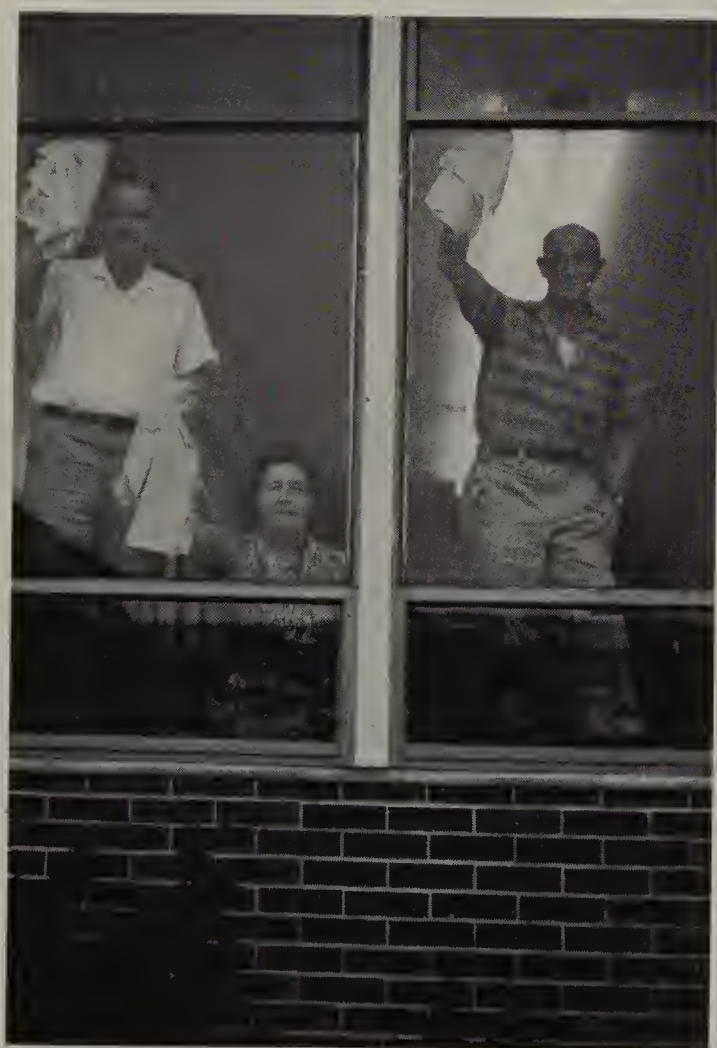

Competition among the fairer sex is also keen.

Cooks, Custodians Tackle Big Tasks

Maintaining 217,364 square feet of floor and preparing over 135,000 meals constitute yearly responsibilities of the custodians and cooks. Many times they arrive before the students and depart well after the three o'clock dismissal bell as they perform tasks important to the function of the school.

Crowded Conditions

Swamped by the largest high school enrollment in the city, staff services created new methods to meet student demands.

Sophomores' pictures appeared on student body cards for the first time this year through the co-operation of junior high schools. Office personnel are now able to speed identification of many students.

With study hall totals soaring to 1142 students daily, Mrs. Irma Painter and Mr. Gary Davis maintained silence by strictly enforcing study rules.

Over-crowded library conditions forced librarians Mrs. Gwen Durand and Mrs. Lenore Haight to buy more books with less money. Hard-bound paperbacks partially solved the problem. Sturdier than paperbacks, they cost about half as much as hard-bound editions.

Mrs. Lenore Haight aids Glenn Fehler in the use of library references.

In Memoriam

Trudi Whitehead

"We would like you to know that we—each of us—feel that we are richer for having known you. Today, our hearts are heavy and yet the remembrance of your sincerity and devotion to Shadle serve to lighten the load and the heart.

"We shall miss you very much. As we ponder what to say somehow we believe that you would remind us of the words of he who said:

'Life is real! Life is earnest!
And the grave is not its goal.
Dust thou art, to dust returnest
Was not spoken of the soul.

Let us, then, be up and doing,
With a heart for any fate;
Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labor and to wait.

BRITISH MOTOR CAR DISTRIBUTORS INC.

BMC has occupied a 19,000 square-foot building in Spokane. Adjoining the structure at E. 521 Sprague is a 30,000 square-foot lot for parking area and used cars. President of the firm is Kjell Qvale, whose brother, Ragnor Qvale, designed the building.

We extend a special welcome to the Highlanders.

A black and white photograph of a long, dimly lit corridor. On the left side, there is a railing and a series of vertical panels or windows that allow some light to filter through. The floor is dark and reflective. In the far distance, two silhouetted figures are standing, looking towards the camera. The overall atmosphere is somber and contemplative.

As this year ends, the events of 1965 will culminate and fade into blurred images. Sharp contrasts of yesterday and today will dim to memories and reflections. Present activities will form shadows which will lengthen into the coming year as Highlanders explore uncharted paths. It is these—the Shadows of Our Day—which will silhouette the future.

Noyes,
Can you believe it I can't! We are finally leaving S.P.! Boy am I going to miss it (ha, ha). Noyes I'm really glad we've gotten to know each other so well this year & fast.
I've really had a lot of laughs & fun together.
Last summer was kicks (one time in particular at Coeur d'Alene, remember?)
I hope we can have more of those fun times this year. (check?)

I'm really going to miss you next year when I'm at Central but you'll have to come down with Cori & Bill & we'll all get together & drink coffee & talk over "good times!" I hope you'll remember to do that Roberts!! Now, as for you, I hope you go to school & get an education!
(Don't sound like a raggy school-teacher?)
I'll have to come back & buzz around with you in your "green S.T.O.-right?"
Roberts, will have to have some more water-skiing contests with you & Subs again. Since you were the winner last year, let's give Subs a chance O.K.?
I hope you have gobs of fun this summer,
but take it easy on the "subs" (No sweat, eh?)
You'll be seeing me over in your goal a few times. Roberts don't get too black in the rays!

Best to you always Noyes.

Love,
Randy Sweet

Dear Noyes —

First of all I'd like to thank you for all the rides you've given me & Sam.
You've been a great guy to me & I hope we will remain friends always. Best of luck in whatever you do. I sincerely hope happiness will be yours always.

Love ya —

Sally Ewing

Stay sober & be good — ok?
